93 BOOK REVIEWS IN SCHOLARLY JOURNALS 1981-2014

BOOK REVIEW AND PEER COMMENTS:

Professor Stefania Gallini, National University of Colombia, Bogota, '... thank you once more for bringing a global, yet very politically-committed perspective to our meeting ... You inspired more than a few, especially among the younger generation. Thanks also for your generosity. At the beginning we had no funding at all. Without your unconditional support it would have been impossible to invite such a prominent scholar as you are. Your name in our program since a very early stage helped us with fund raising and institutional support. Finally, thanks for inspiring Sonia. She is now well on our track of environmental history. (email June 2012)

Dr Claudia Reusch, Managing Director, Rachel Carson Center, Ludwig Maximilian University and Deutsches Museum, regarding my role as Chair of the Academic Advisory Board: 'I enjoy working with you so much and I would like to add something to my SMS: You are such a wonderful role-model for all women at the RCC, especially the young ones. They admire you very much and speak about you very often'.(email 13 December 2011)

Professor Heather Goodall, University of Technology, Sydney, '... to let you know how much I appreciate your work and of what enormous interest it has to us both in itself and for its comparisons with Australia' (email March 2006)

Review of Disputed Territories in Postcolonial Studies 8(3) 2005, pp.336-346 '... Jane Carruthers, a pioneer of South African environmental history, continues her productive focus on historical comparisons between Australian and South African environmental history'.

Review of South Africa's Environmental History in Journal of African History 46(1), 2005, pp.165-166, '... Carruthers provides a superb overview of environmental historiography in South Africa'.

Reviews of Wildlife and Warfare: The Life of James Stevenson-Hamilton included comment: 'scholarly yet entertaining manuscript ...Carruthers has achieved this contextualisation with great skill and insight ... Carruthers's considerable skill as a historian is also evident in the deft handling of a massive range of source materials ... a useful text in university courses in environmental history and wilderness.' '... Carruthers succeeds in presenting a rounded portrait of an extraordinary individual in an attractive and accessible study. The book makes an important contribution to our understanding of nature conservation in the British empire and beyond.'

Review of Wildlife and Warfare in African Studies Review 45(3) 2002, pp.48-51, '...detailed, well-written and well-researched work ... the reader is given a wonderful and unique opportunity to understand in considerable detail the ninety-year life of the man who was instrumental in the establishment of Kruger National Park ... a fine and highly readable work.'

Review of The Kruger National Park in Kleio 29 1997, pp.189-191, 'a fine pioneering example of this new field [environmental history] and an inspiration for further work ... succinct and powerful book ...'

On editorship of Kleio 'You revived what in 2003 appeared to be a moribund publication and turned it into a vibrant, progressive publication' (Dr M. Adhikari, University of Cape Town, February 2007).

On role as seminar paper discussant 'Your contribution was a model of its sort at a time when professionalism is at a premium...' (Prof. Charles van Onselen, University of Pretoria, February 2001).

Featured in Unisa Research Report 2009, as 'Highlights from Research Projects' (pp.44-46).

Comments from postgraduate students at Monash University (Melbourne) after a Field Study Visit to Mpumalanga in January 2011 (1) ‘... on a more personal note, I just wanted to thank you sincerely for your time and effort. The lecture on National Parks remains at the top of my list of lectures I’ve received in my entire education...’ and (2) ‘...I just wanted to send a BIG thank you your way! It was so lovely to have met you, your comments and perspective were always so measured, thoughtful and fascinatingly thought-provoking. It’s clear that you are passionate about this field and only a student can really understand how inspiring that is!’
